Workers May Get More Unemployment Benefits

Richmond-The Virginia Employment Commission has sent notices to more than 5,500 Virginia workers who have exhausted their regular unemployment insurance benefits if they are still unemployed.

The notices for the extended benefits program went to all persons who filed a new claim for unemployment insurance benefits since February 25, 1974 and received all of the benefits to which they are initially entitled during the following year.

The extended benefits program was "triggered" into effect in Virginia on February 23 because the national unemployment rate for persons covered by unemployment insurance remained high for the past three months. It provides unemployed workers with the same weekly benefit amount that they received under the regular unemployment insurance program, but for only half the number of weeks already received.

The VEC put its notices in the mail on Monday, February 24, the day after the program went into effect. The notices were sent to the address where a worker's last benefit check was sent. The notice tells workers that if they are still unemployed they should report to their local VEC office to file their claim for the extended benefits.

Any workers who have moved since they received their last unemployment insurance check, or who for any reason haven't received a notice, but think that they might be eligible under the extended benefits program, should visit their nearest local VEC office.

Workers are urged not to call the VEC offices because of the tremendous workloads the offices are handling under the regular unemployment insurance program. The local offices can provide faster service to all concerned if personnel aren't interrupted by phone calls. Persons who are eligible for the extended benefits program will have to visit their local VEC office anyway to initiate their claim.

1975 Tobacco Price Support Not Tied To Acreage

Flue-cured tobacco growers will not be required to stay within their allotments in order to qualify for price support on 1975 marketings, according to James R. Ford, Jr., Chairman of the Appomattox County ASC Committee.

"Price support will be available to eligible producers on their 1975 marketings up to 110 percent of their poundage quotas," Mr. Ford said, "But some growers have been asking if harvested acreage must be within the allotment to qualify for price support. So, we want to make it clear to growers that support eligibility will not depend on whether the harvested acreage is above or below the farm allotments which growers received in January."

Some 190,000 farms have flue-cured tobacco allotments. The growers are in about 220 counties in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, Florida and Alabama.

Farm operators who have experience in tobacco production but who do not have an allotment may learn about the eligibility requirements for new farm allotments by contacting their local office of the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Deadline for filing an application for a new allotment is Feb. 18, Ford said. The program involves no discrimination as to race, religion, color, sex, or national origin.

Energy Saving Tips

1. Lower your thermostat to 65-68 degrees during the day and 60 degrees at night. If these settings are 6 degrees lower than those maintained last year, you could save up to 15% in heating costs.

2. Never overload your washing machine and dryer. Overloading your washer will reduce the cleaning action and make it work harder than desired. (Varying the size of garments in a full load improves the cleaning action by allowing freer circulation) Overloading the automatic washer and dryer will cause more abrasion, more lint, more wrinkles, and wasted energy.

3. Remove unnecessary weight from the car. The lighter the car, the less gas it uses.

4. Let your dishes air dry. After the final rinse, turn off the knob of the dishwasher and open the door.

5. Putting frozen foods directly into the oven requires more cooking time. Plan ahead and thaw frozen foods in your refrigerator before cooking.

6. Insulate any heat ducts that run through your attic. Heat loss from attic ducts is totally wasted.

7. Purchase slightly less than a full tank of gasoline to prevent overflow – and waste of fuel!

Puritan Pulpit

"For the Hope Which Is Laid Up For You in Heaven" . . . Colossians 1:5

Our hope in Christ for the future is the mainspring and the mainstay of our joy here. It will move our hearts to think often of heaven, for all that we can desire is promised there. Here we are weary and tired, but yonder is the land of rest where there will be no more labour, and fatigue shall be forever banished. To those who are weary and spent, the word "rest" is full of heaven. We are always in the field of battle; we are so tempted within, and so molested by foes without, that we have little or no peace; but in heaven we shall enjoy the victory, when the banner shall be waved aloft in triumph, and the sword shall be put away, and we shall hear our Captain say, "Well done, good and faithful servant." We have suffered bereavement after bereavement, but we are going to the land of the immortal where graves are unknown things. Here sin is a constant grief to us, but there we shall be perfectly holy, for there shall by no means enter into that kingdom anything which defiles. Is it not joy, that you are not to be in banishment forever, that you are not to dwell eternally in this wilderness, but shall soon inherit Heaven?

Nevertheless let it never be said of us, that we are dreaming about the future and forgetting the present, let the future sanctify the present to highest uses. Through the Spirit of God the hope of heaven is the most powerful force for the product of virtue; it is a fountain of joyous effort, it is the cornerstone of cheerful holiness. The man who has this hope in him goes about his work with vigor, for the joy of the Lord is his strength. He fights against temptation with ardor, for the hope of the next world repels the fiery darts of the adversary. He can labor without present reward, for he looks for a reward in the world to come.

Home Policy Rates Reduced

The Virginia Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Co. has reduced its homeowner policy rates by up to 15 per cent, it was announced recently by Otis W. Nuckols, executive vice president.

The rate reduction will become effective April 1, 1975, on all new and renewal business, according to Nuckols.

"This will be savings of approximately $55,000 to our homeowner policy holders," Nuckols said. He added that this was in addition to the 10 per cent dividend of $140,000 paid to farm owner policy holders paid in December.

"Our claims experience has been very good during the past year, and it gives us the opportunity to pass this savings on to our policy holders," Nuckols stated.

The VFBMIC board of directors approved the rate cutting recommendation at its February meetings.

The VFB Mutual Insurance Co. was established in 1951, and will be observing its 25th anniversary on Sept. 15 of this year.
